To the student

Reading is very important to help you learn English. It is also a lot of fun. But to learn as much as you can from reading, it is important to read different kinds of English. For example, the English you need when you read a train timetable is very different from the English you need when you read a story. This book has a lot of different kinds of English.

There are six sections in the book:

Section 1 is Messages: In this section somebody wants to send information in writing to somebody else. There is a test on menus and another on timetables. There is also a test on text messages and another on e-mails.

Section 2 is People: In this section all the tests are about people, in different ways. For example, there is an informal letter between friends. There is formal English in a biography. There is a CV and a job application that you can use as models to help with your writing, as well as testing your reading.

Section 3 is Places: In this section, too, many different styles of English are shown, some informal and some formal. There is the informal English of a holiday postcard. There is also the formal English of a novel – like all the fiction extracts in the book it was written by me – and a formal letter of complaint.

Section 4 is Things: You will find some descriptive writing in this section. There are descriptions of clothes and of a computer. There are more examples of letters, including an informal letter thanking someone for a present. And there is a test about buying and booking on the Internet.

Section 5 is Fiction: There are many different kinds of fiction in this section, from an adventure story to jokes, a comic and a cartoon. There are also (as in other sections) examples of American and British English.

Section 6 is Fact: This section has different kinds of newspaper stories, an encyclopaedia entry, a recipe and advice on how to survive an earthquake.

You can read these tests in any order you like. You can do a complete section or jump about between sections. You can do all the tests with a fiction text, or all the tests with a letter text or a newspaper text, or all the tests with a formal or informal text. Or you can do the ones you like best first. Who knows, maybe you will like the others too, when you do them!

I enjoyed writing this book and I hope you enjoy using it.

2 Signs and notices

Signs and notices often use the imperative and negative imperative.

Imperative

get points = We want you to buy more and get points. (Advertising language) make sure = Don't forget. It's more polite with the word please. (A warning)

Negative imperative

Don't get too close = Please don't drive close behind my car.

A stronger negative imperative uses No. For example, No smoking.

No Parking.

First reading. Read the signs and notices and match them with the places where you find them.

Jo, darling

Don't be alarmed but there's been a small accident. Tommy fell and cut his chin. There was blood everywhere and he screamed but it isn't too bad. I've taken him to A & E. There'll probably be a wait. Please put the pie on the table in the oven. And can you do some potatoes and a salad with it? Thanks. And darling don't go out. Please stay by the phone in case daddy phones and then you can tell him what's happened. Perhaps you can get on with some homework or something.

Lots of love

Mummy

Dear Maureen and Clive,

David and I are so pleased to welcome Gavin into our family. I can only say that he is the son-in-law we have always wanted for our daughter, Melanie. Just to let you know about the arrangements – we have booked the wedding for Saturday 17 October, with the reception at St Jude's Church Hall, here in the village. We are inviting about a hundred people from our side and we expect you will want to invite about the same number.

With best wishes Christine (Christine Weller)

Dear Christine,

Thanks for your e-mail but I wish you had asked us before booking the hall. Clive wants to invite a lot of his business friends and then there are Gavin's friends from University and my friends... Can we meet and discuss this?

Dear Christine and David,

Maureen and I think that all of us should put the children first and we should forget some of the things that were said when we met at your house. I think the best answer to our problems is that we make all the arrangements. I have therefore booked the assembly rooms here in our city for Saturday 24 October and I have cancelled the booking you made at St Jude's Church Hall. The Assembly Rooms holds 500 people. I think we will all enjoy the wedding.

Hey Babe!

Luv ya Luv ya Luv ya. I hear the olds are planning a wedding. Oh Dear! I think we'd better tell them, don't you? Before they go ahead and book a hall and all that. Everything we wanted to avoid!!!! Just two more weeks then Uni finishes. The flat is almost ready. Then you can come up here and we can live together at last. Can't wait!! Counting the seconds!!! Yours4ever.

Dear mum and dad and Mr and Mrs Weller,

There's no easy way of saying this but Gavin and I got married six months ago. We were going to tell you, honest. But we never seemed to have time... Sorry!

First reading. Tick (✓) the summary that has no mistakes in it, a or b.

- a Two couples, the Wellers and the Higginbothams, both wanted to book a hall for the wedding of their children, Gavin and Melanie. The Wellers and the Higginbothams had a row about the arrangements, so Gavin and Melanie booked the wedding themselves.
- b Christine and David Weller wanted to book a hall in their village for the wedding of their daughter Melanie to Gavin, the son of Clive and Maureen Higginbotham. But the Higginbothams thought the hall was not big enough. The Wellers and the Higginbothams had a row. The Higginbothams then booked another, bigger, hall. But Melanie and Gavin had married six months ago without telling their parents.

11 Film review

The Review

a The Love Thing is the latest vehicle for Grant Twiss, recently voted most attractive man in the world by Girl Alive magazine. The story is minimal. Twiss's character, lovable Simon, is the only one of his friends who is not married. Twiss goes to all the weddings until he eventually finds love. Will you like it? Yes, of course you will.

b Cameraman Pete Olnay won an award for some of the stunning shots of the Rocky Mountains in Ben, Gin and Tilly. Ben and Gin are dogs and Tilly is a cat. When a family leave home and leave their animals behind, Ben, Gin and Tilly travel a thousand miles across the Rockies to find them. All three animals can talk and their pet's-eye view of life is a treat.

c Wyatt Earp was born in Pella, Iowa. He was just old enough to fight on the Union side in the Civil War – he was fifteen. His family went to California in 1864 as part of a wagon train. He arrived in Tombstone, Arizona, in 1879 and the famous gunfight at the OK Corral between the Earp Brothers and Doc Holliday was two years later. Only Wyatt was alive after the gunfight. It's a great story and it is well told in Wyatt, veteran director Bob Santana's first film for ten years.

d As a couple they are just too good to be true. He is an award-winning scientist. She is a brilliant concert pianist, but she gave it up to look after the kids. This is America, so they are both beautiful. And their house is beautiful, even if it is haunted. But what the spirit tells Petronella (Carrie Langtry) about her husband (Barney Grable) makes her see their marriage in a new light. For one thing he tries to kill her. And I can still hear her scream. You really must see The House on the Hill.

Read the film reviews (a–d) then decide which film is best for which person. Match 1–4 with a–d.

1 Geoff

My hobby is the American West. I read about the American Civil War, the Indian Wars and cowboys all the time. I love westerns. They're my favourite films.

2 Melissa

My idea of heaven is to go to a good film and then a meal with about six girlfriends. Ideally, the film should be romantic without being too silly. And a few good-looking male film stars always helps!

3 Sandra

I go to the cinema to be scared. I don't like stories about everyday life. I can get everyday life at home, thank you. I want to be terrified, I want to scream. I like horror films, ghost films, murder, mystery. I don't care as long as I'm frightened!

4 Reg

Since I started watching films with my children, I quite like kids' films. I've always been an animal lover and if the film has animals in it, so much the better.

13 Chat room

Hello out there. I am sitting on the floor in the dark. There is no furniture in this room. There is only the light of the computer. I can see the lights of the big city out of the window. I don't know anybody in this city. Is there anybody out there? – NEW BOY

Hello, New Boy. Why isn't there any furniture in the room? – WORRIED GIRL

Hi, Worried Girl. Because all my furniture is still in Scotland – where I come from. It arrives tomorrow. I came down by train a day early to visit the company where I start work next week. I had a meal in a cafe. Then I went for a walk. Except for the hour at my new office I haven't talked to anybody for three days. What are you worried about, worried girl? – NEW BOY

Oh, new boy, you sound so sad. I'm worried about my exams. It's ridiculous isn't it? I'm twenty-three and I'm worried about my exams, like a schoolgirl. What did you have to eat at the cafe? – WORRIED GIRL

What a funny question! Well, promise you won't laugh. I usually eat good healthy food. But I felt so alone here. So I had Big Joe's Fry Up. It was fried sausages, chips, bacon ... Are you hungry? – NEW BOY

Yes, I'm starving. I don't know why. I'm nervous about my exams tomorrow and I think that's making me hungry. I think I'll make a sandwich. Why don't you join me for dinner? – WORRIED GIRL

But how can I ...? Ah, I understand. OK, I'm back now. I just went to get half a sandwich that I bought on the train. I'm just eating now. Nice having dinner with you worried girl. – NEW BOY

Nice having dinner with you, too, new boy. To be honest, this is my first date for about a year. Can't remember the last time I spoke to anybody actually ... And do you know something? I feel better now. You've really cheered me up. – WORRIED GIRL

I feel better too. Really! OK. Must go. Good luck for tomorrow. – NEW BOY

Good luck to you, too. Good luck with the job. – WORRIED GIRL

LEO (July 22 – August 21)

You suddenly become closer to your a friend who only recently was irritating you. Today's full moon sees you planning fruit future events with them. Stay open-minded as the suggestions that are made concerning these events are in on your best long-term interests. Even if they don't seem to be at first!

'My horoscope says that I'll get a big surprise soon.'

The language of horoscopes chart = astrological chart – the way the stars influence your star sign aspect = the position of the stars in relation to each other retrograde = the planet is travelling backwards (usually a bad sign)

Saturn, Uranus, Venus, Mercury = planets

Horoscopes often use the present simple. (e.g. Issues come to a head...)

The present perfect progressive is also used a lot for things that have been happening lately. (e.g. You have lately been reconsidering...)

18 Missing people

Have you seen these people?

Jane Peters, aged 21

Jane was walking to college with a friend. The friend went back to her flat because she had forgotten something and Jane walked on alone. She never arrived at college and she has not been seen for the last five years. CCTV film of some shops near the college shows Jane talking to a man on the afternoon that she disappeared. None of her friends can identify the man. Several young women have disappeared in that area, and police and her family and friends are very concerned about her.

Jane is of slim build and blonde. When she was last seen, she was wearing a blue anorak, red pullover and jeans. She was carrying a green carrier bag, with her books in it.

Arthur Sugden, aged 61

Arthur went to get a newspaper at the local corner shop and never came back. He has been missing for seven years. His wife Pru says he had problems at work but for him to just walk out like that was 'completely out of character'. It is thought that Mr Sugden had money worries and police believe he had been gambling. Mrs Sugden and the couple's daughters Sheila, now aged 32, and Jeanette, 28, appeal to Mr Sugden to come back. 'Whatever the problem is, we can put it right together,' says Mrs Sugden.

Mr Sugden is of medium build and has thinning brown hair. When last seen he was wearing a tweed jacket, grey trousers and a white shirt with a red tie.

Richard (Dickie) Gallagher, aged 5

Last summer, Dickie Gallagher was playing on the beach on the family holiday in Corfu when he suddenly disappeared. The police searched the beach and interviewed people at nearby hotels. Coastguards searched the sea for two days after he disappeared. They believe that if Dickie had drowned the body would have been found by now. His older brother Leon, aged 12, was looking after Dickie while his parents went back to their hotel for a sleep. Dickie climbed over a wall and when Leon went to look for him he was gone. No tourists on the beach remember seeing him on his own. Mr Tom Gallagher, a driver with British Rail, has given up his job to return to Corfu. The family are preparing to sell their house to raise money to help in the search for Dickie.

Dickie Gallagher has dark hair and when last seen he was wearing black swimming trunks.

CCTV = closed-circuit television-cameras that record what happens in a particular area, e.g. in the street or in a shop.

corner shop = a small shop – not a supermarket

Corfu = a Greek island popular with British holidaymakers

Informal letter 1:
exchange visit

558 Van Ness Ave
San Francisco CA 94102
tel. (415) 974-8984

Hi Uwe!

How are you? Wow, when I sit down and write to you like this, I remember so many great things - all those warm evenings sitting out in the garden of the Cafe Aigner, those times we went swimming with all your friends, the ice skating ... Say hello to everybody in Esslingen for me, especially your mom and dad. By the way, is it OK if I write to Brigitte? I have her address. I know you two go back a long way, but she's not your girlfriend is she? I just want to make sure ...

My mom says to say hello to your folks and to tell you she needs a recipe to make all those south German specialties I haven't stopped talking about. Maybe your mom could write? The recipe for Spaetzle will do for a start!

So when are you coming to San Francisco? I guess February is out of the question, and too bad because it's Chinese New Year and the celebration is really spectacular. More realistically, the Giants, our baseball team, sponsor a youth baseball camp in June. How would that work out with your vacation time in Baden-Württemberg?

It's been hard going back to school after such a great summer in Germany. Luckily, an elective in Modern Political Systems is saving my life. It is the ONLY interesting thing I am doing with my life! Oh yes, that and a program for the school radio station on classic rock. Yours truly is the star DJ.

OK, Uwe, write me soon, or e-mail if that's better for you.

Take care
Pete

American English

letter from a friend

Linwoods

25 October

Dear Emily,

Touch wood, things are not too bad for me at the moment. I still have that cough that Dr Maclaren isn't interested in and my back hurts when I sit too long. The leg problem is much better, though.

Our big excitement here recently was visitors from England. A rather pretty young girl came to the home, with no warning, and said she was my great niece. All the nurses made a big fuss of her and all the other people in the home wanted to know who she was. Unfortunately, I couldn't tell them. Anyway, she is a charming girl called Carol who is backpacking around Northern Territory with a friend (also a girl, thank heavens). This friend was a bit miserable. The two of them had come in the rainy season and she kept complaining that it was raining. Silly girl. Her name is Selina, which is a silly name, too.

Carol and Selina did all the things that tourists do here. They went to Kakadu National Park and Jim Jim Falls. They took the most wonderful photographs which they were kind enough to come back and show me. Carol caught a barramundi (a local fish) and as she gave me two copies of the photograph, I'm sending one to you. Apparently they had an Aborigine guide. That other girl, Selina, kept asking me about the Aborigines, as if everything that has happened to them was my fault.

But Carol was quite interested in my stories about Darwin in the old days. I lived through the bombing in World War II, you know. I know you Londoners think London was the only place that was bombed, but it wasn't. And I nearly died when the cyclone hit us at Christmas in the 1970s. I told Carol all about that. One of the ladies who lives here had some photographs of that, too. That was nice, but one woman, Mrs Apthorpe, wouldn't leave us alone when Carol was here. We don't get many young people here, I know, but Carol had come to see me, not Mrs Apthorpe.

Well, I must stop now. It's time for my afternoon medicine and then I must have a nap. I hope you are keeping well.

Love Mabel

Choose the best answer, a, b or c.

- 1 How old do you think Mabel Green is?
 - a) between twenty and thirty

- 2 What do you think Mabel Green's main interests are?
 - a) her health (how she is feeling) and her memories
 - b) tourism in the Northern Territory
 - c) the Aborigines
- 3 Where do you think Mabel Green lives?
 - a) in her own home
 - b) in a nursing home for old people
 - c) in a house with Mrs Apthorpe
- 4 Where does Emily live?
 - a) We don't know.
 - b) Probably in Northern Territory but we don't know.
 - c) Probably in London but we don't know.
- 5 Who does Mabel Green like?
 - a) Dr Maclaren
 - b) Mrs Apthorpe
 - c) Carol
- 6 Who does Mabel Green dislike?
 - a) only Dr Maclaren and Mrs Apthorpe
 - b) Dr Maclaren, Mrs Apthorpe and Selina
 - c) Dr Maclaren, Mrs Apthorpe, Emily and Selina
- 7 Has Mabel Green lived in Darwin since she was a young woman?
 - a) We don't know.
 - b) We don't know but probably yes.
 - c) We don't know but probably no.
- 8 What does Mabel Green think has happened to the Aborigines?
 - a) good things
 - b) bad things
 - c) some good and some bad things

Aborigines = The people who lived in Australia before the Europeans came in the eighteenth century.

cyclone = a very strong wind. Cyclone Tracey destroyed most of Darwin (the state capital of Northern Territory) on Christmas Eve 1974.

rainy season = The Northern Territory has a tropical climate and it rains, sometimes heavily, from November to April.

backpacking = travelling cheaply over a long distance, usually by young people.

Gossip: newspaper and magazine articles

DJ Timmy Lewis

Gilli and Timmy's evening in (until three o'clock in the morning)

Another exclusive for CHEERS magazine by our Show Business correspondent Sid Todd

Spotted yesterday leaving the plush Mayfair home of star DJ Timmy Lewis was none other than Gilli Lollipop. Gilli has been linked with a number of men since she split with all-girl group The Beautiful People last year. First there was American rock legend Rick Plutz, but it is believed that Rick is now happily back at the Plutz family home in Malibu. Then Gilli was seen swimming in Jamaica with Peter Bean, nightclub owner of Beans. But Gilli has always insisted that she and Timmy Lewis were 'just good friends'. (Oh no, not that one again, Gilli, please!!) Meanwhile, multi-millionaire Timmy, who owns his own record production company as well as the radio station Radio Live, has recently been spotted at Beans dating sixteen-year-old model Bronco McGuire, the daughter of sixties drummer Jumbo McGuire of the group Plastic Underground. Later a spokesman for Timmy said, 'It's early days, please give them time.'

Too good to be true?

Yesterday's report in CHEERS magazine that now solo singer Gilli Lollipop was seen leaving the house of DJ Timmy Lewis in the early hours, comes just two days before the release of Gilli's second solo record, It's All For Me, after her split with The Beautiful People. Is the timing too good to be true, or what? The record is thought to be vital for Gilli's solo career after her first release as a solo artist I Just Wanna Be in Love did not exactly set the world on fire. Gilli, whose work for Stop Cancer Now was reported in the Daily News yesterday, said, 'It's early days, please give Timmy and me time.'

Gilli Lollipop

First reading. Choose the best summary of the two texts, a or b.

- a CHEERS magazine reported that Gilli Lollipop and Timmy Lewis were girlfriend and boyfriend but the next day the Daily News said that Gilli wanted publicity for her new record and so the story was not true.
- b CHEERS magazine found out that Gilli Lollipop and Timmy Lewis were boyfriend and girlfriend. The Daily News said that was true and they said that Gilli also had a new record coming out soon and that she did a lot of work for organizations like Stop Cancer Now.

22 Biography

William Shakespeare (1564–1616)

William Shakespeare was born in Stratford-upon-Avon in 1564. His mother was called Mary Arden. She came from a rich family. His father, John, was a businessman who sold gloves, wool and meat. William went to Stratford Grammar School where he learned a little Latin and Greek. He married Anne Hathaway in 1582. She was eight years older than him. They had three children, Susannah, born in 1583, and the twins Judith and Hamnet, born in 1585. There are no descendants of the Shakespeare family alive today.

It is possible that in 1587 William Shakespeare joined a group of travelling actors and left Stratford because he was in trouble for stealing a deer but nobody is sure if this is true or if the date is correct.

By 1592 he was definitely an actor and playwright in London. In 1599 the Globe Theatre opened in London and most of his 36 or 37 plays were performed there. Nobody is sure exactly how many plays Shakespeare wrote.

The Globe was made of wood. It was round. There was no roof, so if it rained the audience and the actors got wet. The audience stood on three sides of the stage. They were not quiet, as theatre audiences are today. They made a lot of noise, and sometimes they had sword fights. They also ate oranges because of the bad smell everywhere.

Shakespeare wrote three kinds of play: comedies, tragedies and histories. The comedies had happy endings, the tragedies had sad endings (like Hamlet) and the histories told the story of the past, either in England (like Henry V) or in ancient Rome (like Julius Caesar).

Although there were other successful playwrights at the time – especially Christopher Marlowe – Shakespeare was recognized in his own lifetime as one of the finest playwrights of his time. By 1597 he was rich enough to buy New Place, the finest house in Stratford.

In 1613 the Globe burned down during a performance of Shakespeare's Henry VIII. The following year Shakespeare retired and went back to New Place in Stratford. In 1616 he died of a fever and he is buried in Holy Trinity Church, Stratford.

In his will he left his wife his second-best bed. This may mean that he did not love his wife very much but it may also mean that he was trying to avoid paying death duties.

First reading. Are these events in Shakespeare's life definite (write D) or possible (write P)?

- 1 Shakespeare was born in Stratford-upon-Avon. _____
- 2 Shakespeare stole a deer in Stratford. _____
- 3 Shakespeare left Stratford in 1587. _____
- 4 By 1592 Shakespeare was writing plays in London. _____
- 5 Shakespeare wrote 36 plays. _____
- 6 Shakespeare wrote three kinds of play. _____
- 7 Shakespeare was recognized as one of the finest playwrights of his time during his life. _____
- 8 Shakespeare bought New Place in 1597. _____
- 9 Shakespeare died in 1616. _____
- 10 Shakespeare left his wife his second-best bed because he did not want to pay death duties. _____

Second reading. Complete the timeline of Shakespeare's life by writing the date under each event.

1564 _____

The usual preposition for dates when something actually happened during that month or year is in e.g. Shakespeare died in 1616. The preposition by with a date means that something had been done at some point before this time.

Novel 1: describing cultures

This is an extract from The Last Cowboy by Duane Gerrard.

I was a kid when they built the cattle station in Abilene, though I thought I was a man. It was 1867. I was fifteen and I had loved my first woman and killed my first man. By then we had already killed all the buffalo in Texas and Oklahoma and Kansas. We rode the Chisholm Trail like kings. I was Larry Cabe, the king. How about that?

Then cowboys like us brought cattle in instead of the buffalo. We drove them from Texas along the Chisholm Trail, through Oklahoma all the way to the railroad at Abilene. Every year hundreds of cowboys made that journey.

The Cherokee in Oklahoma were my friends. I used to ride away for the day and meet with Red Hand, son of the Cherokee chief. We hunted all day. That was before the drink got him, like it got so many of his people. Back then they said that the Cherokee drank to live and drank to die. Either way it was a terrible sight to see.

When the first settlers started up their farms in Oklahoma, they were our friends. They were lonely there, on their small farms. They gave us food when we drove the cattle through. Sometimes we stopped and helped them put up the fences around their farms. One settler, Jim Sutter, even wanted me to stay. "We got plenty o' space here," he said to me. "I could use some help. In return, you get half the farm. What d'ya say?" Jim knew I had eyes for Molly, his wife's sister. But I said no. I've never stayed, always moved on.

Then, year after year, there were more farms. And more. There was less and less space for us to get the cattle through. And the settlers didn't want us coming through any more. They lost their cows when they got mixed up with our cattle. The settlers started to carry guns. And somewhere along the Chisholm Trail I started to get old. Twenty years after they built the cattle depot, my teeth and hair were falling out. I felt like an old man.

Then, that last time, there was no way through. The fence at Sutter's farm joined the fences of all the other farms. Jim Sutter stood behind his fence with a rifle. "Let us through, Jim," I said. Behind me two hundred cattle were pawing the ground and the few cowboys I could get by then didn't know what to do with them.

"Jim, I have to get these cattle to Abilene."

"Sorry, Larry. We lost too many cows last year. You can't come through."

My cowboys came up behind me. One of them drew a gun. I said, "Put that away," but even as I spoke Cherokees came out of nowhere. I recognized Red Hand's son, Pale Cloud. I had played with him when he was a kid. Now he wasn't a kid any more and he had a rifle. His shot was the last thing I remember on that long, final ride along the Chisholm Trail.

First reading. Put the events (a–e) in the order that they happened.

- a There were more and more farms on the Chisholm Trail. _____
- b Larry Cabe was friends with the Cherokee and the settlers. _____
- c Red Hand's son, Pale Cloud, shot Larry Cabe. _____
- d The cattle depot was built in Abilene. _____
- e Larry couldn't get the cattle through because the fences from all the farms were joined up. _____

Second reading. In each paragraph from the story there are three extra words. Find them and put a line through them.

- 1 I was a kid when they built the cattle station ~~depot~~ in Abilene, though I thought I was a man. It was 1867. I was fifteen and I had loved my first woman and killed my first man. By then we had already killed some all the buffalo in Texas and Oklahoma and Kansas. We rode the Chisholm Trail like kings. I was Larry Cabe, the king. How think about that?
- 2 The Cherokee in Oklahoma were never my friends. I used to ride away for the day and meet with Red Hand, son of one the Cherokee chief. We hunted all day. That was before the drink got him, like it got so many of his people. Back then they said that the Cherokee drank to live and drank to die. Either way it was not a terrible sight to see.
- 3 My cowboys came up with behind me. One of them drew a gun. I said, "Put that away," but even as I spoke cowboys Cherokees came out of nowhere. I recognized Red Hand's son, Pale Cloud. I had played with him when he I was a kid. Now he wasn't a kid any more and he had a rifle. His shot was the last thing I remember on that long, final ride along the Chisholm Trail.

Background to the story

Before white men came to America, Native Americans like the Cherokee killed buffalo for food and clothes. The white men killed the buffalo and brought in cattle (cows). From 1867 to the late 1880s cowboys took the cattle to the train station at Abilene (Kansas). But settlers (farmers) started farms with fences round them and the cattle couldn't get through.

24 Novel 2: describing a way of life

This is an extract from Breaking Rules by Cindy McArthur.

Today is the first day of the rest of your life, right? Right. So why doesn't somebody do something about it?

My name is Rhoda Perkins and I live in an old brownstone in Brooklyn with three other girls. I work at JFK airport, at the perfume counter. You fly from JFK and buy perfume, you get me. I'll tell you just one more thing about me. My life sucks.

10 o'clock July 25: I should have been at work an hour and a half ago. I phoned the boss.

"Mr. Stevens? Will you go out to dinner with me tonight? ... What do you mean, 'why'? Will you or won't you? It's a simple question ... No, I'm not coming to work. Forget about work. Will you or won't you go out?"

He hung up.

I got up and dressed to kill. I looked fantastic. I knocked on Annie Kowalsky's door. She has the apartment downstairs. Annie got out of bed, something she does not do as often as most people. "Annie Kowalsky," I said, aiming at the one eye she managed to get open. "You could take the garbage down, maybe once a year?" Kowalsky went into shock and worked on opening the other eye.

"This," I continued, "would be a hundred per cent improvement on your previous record of helping in this house. It would make you a better person. Goodbye."

11 o'clock: I walked to The Dragon Pearl and had the "Special Feast for Four Persons" for $50, washed down with two pots of jasmine tea. There was nobody else in the place.

11:45: Took the subway to Times Square. "This subway station is a disgrace," I told the guy who was sweeping the platform. "Mayor Guiliani has an eight-year plan to clean it up. How can it take eight years to clean up a subway station?"

The cleaning guy smiled. "Don't ask me, lady. I just sweep the floor. Have a nice day."

I took the shuttle to Grand Central Terminal. I was feeling kind of full after the six courses of the "Special Feast for Four Persons". I should maybe have passed up the Peking Duck for, say, three of the persons.

1:00: I stopped a cute guy walking his dog outside Grand Central and asked him for a date.

Three months later we got married. Annie Kowalsky was a bridesmaid. I asked Mr. Stevens but he didn't show. Some people have no sense of humor.

First reading. The novel is called Breaking Rules. Tick (✓) all the things that Rhoda Perkins did that you think break the rules of everyday life.

- | | | |
|---|---|--------------------------|
| 1 | Rhoda phoned her boss when she didn't get to work on time. | <input type="checkbox"/> |
| 2 | Rhoda asked her boss to have dinner when she had not come into work. | <input type="checkbox"/> |
| 3 | Rhoda asked Annie Kowalsky to take the garbage down. | <input type="checkbox"/> |
| 4 | Rhoda told Annie Kowalsky that taking the garbage down would make her a better person. | <input type="checkbox"/> |
| 5 | Rhoda had a six course Chinese meal for four people at 11 o'clock in the morning. | <input type="checkbox"/> |

| 7 | Rhoda stopped a stranger outside Grand Central Station and asked him for a date. | <input type="checkbox"/> |

Second reading. Match the names (1–7) with who or what they are (a–g).

- | | | | |
|---|-------------------------|---|---|
| 1 | a brownstone | a | mayor of New York at the time of the story |
| 2 | JFK | b | a Chinese restaurant |
| 3 | Mr. Stevens | c | Rhoda's boss |
| 4 | Annie Kowalsky | d | an area of New York |
| 5 | The Dragon Pearl | e | a type of house |
| 6 | Mayor Guiliani | f | someone who lives in the same building as Rhoda |
| 7 | Brooklyn | g | an airport in New York City |

brownstone = type of house made of a reddish-brown stone, found in New York City.

sucks (American English slang) = is not satisfactory garbage = British English rubbish

subway = British English underground or tube

Peking Duck = a Chinese dish

Youth hostel and hotel information

The Lake District Youth Hostels

The beauty of the Lake District, England's largest National Park, tempts visitors whatever the weather or time of year. Walk or climb in the breathtaking scenery which inspired the poets Wordsworth and Coleridge. Try watersports on Windermere or Coniston Water, or simply wander round the picturesque villages and market towns.

You can explore the area using the Youth Hostel Association's shuttle bus, a door-to-door service that carries you and your backpack to some of the best parts of the Lake District.

With free pick-up from Windermere Railway Station, the shuttle bus takes care of you from the moment you arrive! For more information on this and booking hostels in the Lake District, contact Amblesforth Youth Hostel on 01594 32304.

Lakeside Cabins Creffield, Lancashire LA5 2JZ

Just half an hour's drive from the glorious scenery of the Lake District, and close to the superb beaches of Morecambe Bay ...

Guests are accommodated in spacious wood cabins around a large lake. Each cabin is beautifully furnished and well equipped for a self-catering holiday. Each has its own luxurious sitting room with satellite television and a well equipped kitchen. The bedroom has an en-suite bathroom.

The resort has a private health and leisure complex with heated pool, gymnasium, steam room and sunbed. And after your swim you can enjoy a drink in the bar in the spacious residents' lounge, or an excellent dinner in the modern restaurant.

Whether you like waterskiing or canoeing, or whether you'd rather sit at the water's edge and feed the ducks, you'll love this resort. And if you've come by car and you want to go sightseeing, you couldn't be better placed.

Read Ed's note to Mark. Choose the correct map or picture, a or b.

Hi Mark.

Looking forward to seeing you on Friday. My new house is easy to find. Take the M28 ring road, heading north. Exit Junction 4 signposted Dimchurch. Continue along the dual carriageway to the roundabout, then take the third exit off the roundabout. About a kilometre along this road you'll see a petrol station on the right and the Hospital Arms pub on the left. Take the next right and that will take you into Dimchurch. Latimer Road is the first on the left after the supermarket. I'm at number 43. You can't miss it!

Cheers!

28 Holiday brochure

First reading. In the following text there are twelve unnecessary words. Find them and put a line through them.

A friendly welcome, excellent value and all-round top destination for a fun-packed ski holiday.

The country

Andorra is the an independent principality nestled in the Eastern Pyrenees between countries France and Spain, just 450 kilometres square, but packed with superb skiing, low-priced shopping and lively boring nightlife.

The best ski schools

The ski schools in Andorra are not known to be among the best in Europe and excellent value for money. The vast majority of instructors don't speak English as their first language and all don't have international British Association of Ski Instructors teaching qualifications.

Snowboarding

Andorra is fast slow becoming the new European snowboarding mecca.

Duty-free shopping

If you've skied in other areas of Europe you'll be aware of the high low prices charged for goods and services in the main resorts. Not so in Andorra – its duty-free status means that the prices are unbelievably low, so you can have a good time without spending too much. For the best choice, head for the a capital Andorra la Vella – it's a shopper's paradise with streets lined with bargains.

16 September 2001

Dear Mr Mahita,

I was given your name and the address of your hotel by two friends of ours who stayed at the Sayuri last June. They were Mr James Collins and Mr Arthur Drake. You would perhaps remember James Collins, as he speaks fluent Japanese.

Both Mr Collins and Mr Drake spoke very highly of your hotel and all the help they received from your staff when they visited Kyoto.

Following their recommendation, I would like to make a reservation at your hotel for myself and my friend, Mr Peter Sullivan. We would like two single rooms as close to each other as possible, adjoining would be ideal. We would like to be in Japan for New Year's Day and to be there for Adult's Day (Seijin-no hi), which we have been told is on the second Monday in January. So we would like our reservations to be from 31 December 2001 to 20 January 2002.

I have also been told that you can arrange an English-speaking guide, certainly for the Machiya, the town houses of Kyoto, but also for other aspects of life in Kyoto. Can you also advise me on car hire in Japan, please?

I look forward to hearing from you with confirmation of the booking and advice on prices and payment – how much do you want in advance as a deposit?

I should perhaps mention that unlike our friend Mr Collins, neither myself nor Mr Sullivan has a single word of Japanese (unfortunately!). But I am told that you speak excellent English.

I look forward to hearing from you.

Yours sincerely,

T. R. Latham

Your ref: SAT/PJ Jul

Dear Sir or Madam,

Return of Citroen ZX P189 OAS hired 30 June 2001

I was both distressed and angry to receive your letter dated 6 July. I cannot believe that, as you say, you are threatening to charge us for collecting the car we hired from you, which is now in London. And you are also threatening to sue us for loss of earnings on the car while it is in London and until it is returned.

Of course the car should have been returned on 5 July. But my boyfriend and I were mugged in London. We were both hit in the face and everything we had on us was stolen, including the keys to the hire car. This happened on 1 July in London and we phoned your office from the police station and told you. Unfortunately we did not take the name of the person we spoke to, but it was a female with a Liverpool accent.

As we told this person on the phone, the police refused to break open the hire car for us. They are not allowed to do that. So I could not get at my handbag or our luggage. We were penniless in London and my boyfriend needed hospital treatment for what those thugs did to him. It was only because I know people in London and I was able to borrow money that we could get back to Edinburgh at all.

On the phone we asked you to collect the car for us, drive it back to Edinburgh and give us back my handbag and all our luggage. Will you please do this? As I have explained, we have no way of doing it ourselves. And please write again withdrawing all your threats. I think my boyfriend and I have been through enough, don't you?

Yours faithfully,

Shiona McPhail

This is a very formal letter. The writer has quoted the reference that the firm used (ref:) to file the letter. She also states the subject of the letter under the heading Dear Sir or Madam. The letter to her had the same subject.

Application to visit Australia

Before you apply

- You must have a passport which is valid for your period of stay in Australia.
- You should carefully read the Conditions for a visitor to Australia below.

Conditions for a visitor to Australia

- You must NOT undertake employment while in Australia. A business visitor may only carry out business agreed to by the Australian Government Office.
- You must NOT undertake formal study while in Australia. You may undertake non-formal study – short-term courses of up to three months which are recreational and not subsidized by any government.

You must leave Australia by the end of the authorized stay.

Health insurance

If your travel insurance does not cover health insurance during your visit, we recommend that you take out private health insurance before your departure. Medical treatment in Australia can be very expensive.

Modal must, especially You must NOT, is only used in official regulations and notes like this. It is very strong!

All these people entered Australia on a visitor's visa from 1 January to 1 March. Tick (✓) if everything is OK and put a cross (✗) if there is a problem.

- 1 Brian's passport ran out on 2 March.
- 2 Tracey got a job in a bar.
- 3 Leslie's business visa allowed her to sell mirrors to Australian hotels. She sold some mirrors and stayed at the hotels.
- 4 Peter got some money from the US government to learn Japanese for a month.
- 5 Siti, from Malaysia, learned English for two months.
- 6 Graham, from Scotland, taught English for two months.
- 7 Tom started a three-year course at university.
- 8 Ed left in the middle of March.
- 9 Susan has fallen ill and she doesn't have private medical insurance.

My favourite room

Actor and playwright Simon Peters tells us about his favourite room.

My favourite room is my study, at the end of the house. I call it a study but sometimes it's a kitchen and sometimes it's a bedroom, too. Well, it hasn't got a bed but I fall asleep in the armchairs all the time.

My mother, bless her, was very houseproud. We always had to take our shoes off when we came in the room, in case we made the carpet dirty. We couldn't sit back in the armchairs, in case our hair made them dirty. So I have old rugs on the floor. I bought this blue one at Dubai Airport when I was flying back from the Middle East, after doing a play out there. And the armchairs are old leather ones I bought second-hand in junk shops. Comfort comes first, you see.

I have a small microwave oven in the corner and a kettle. I make simple meals and coffee late at night. I'm a bit of a night owl and I do most of my writing in the early hours of the morning. I play music then, too. I live alone, so there's nobody to disturb.

On the table there's my computer.

I'm a bit of a computer fan so I have lots of toys like a scanner, that I don't really need. I don't play computer games, though! Next to the computer there's my CD player, which really is important to me. I play everything from Vivaldi to the Beatles but I do like rock music, played loudly.

All around the walls you can see my past. I'm a hoarder – I never throw anything away. You can see certificates I got when I was at school on the walls. And there are photos from a lot of my plays. There are no pictures of me, though. I don't want to see my ugly face when I'm learning my lines or writing.

And now I'll tell you what isn't in my room. Because I think you can learn as much about a person from what is not in his room as from what is there. There is no television. There isn't a television in the house. Enough said! And there are no photographs of other people, except actresses and actors who have been in my plays. There's an old saying, you know: 'He walks farthest who walks alone.'

Simon Peters was talking to Fiona Gage.

34 Novel 3: describing towns

This is an extract from At the End of the Day by Stan Sedgwick.

The mine was always the heart of the town. All the men worked down the mine because there was nothing else to do, unless you became a vicar or a professional footballer. And in the last ten years Moxton had had just one of each. Dennis Parker, who was small and very white, had gone down south to be a vicar and Jimmy 'Sniffer' Shaw was the nearest thing Moxton had to a famous son. He played centre forward for Leeds and one game for England. Should have had more.

The mine company ran the Working Men's Club, too. Some of the greatest comedians in the country came to Moxton to tell their jokes at the Working Men's Club. This was the 1930's, radio was around but nobody was very interested. Television hadn't started at all. The comedians toured the country, telling the same jokes over and over again. Nobody had heard them before because nobody went anywhere, outside their own home town. People lived and died in Moxton without ever visiting Featherbridge and that's the village five miles away.

People always ate the same things every day of the week in those days, too.

Friday was always fish. There was always beef for Sunday dinner. That is of course if somebody was working to provide the money. No money and it was greens every day, if you were lucky. As late as World War II there were kids in the town who couldn't walk properly because they didn't get any vitamins. Rickets they called it. You could see little kids limping down the town's main street with rickets.

The main street was about all there was of Moxton, too. The houses on either side of it were one line of tiny cottages, all covered in black from the mine. When you walked in you were right in the main room. There was no hall or anything. There was a tin bath in the main room where the miner father washed himself in the evening, after his wife had heated up the water and carried it in.

Sunday was different, of course. Sunday was church and then maybe a walk on the moors. The countryside outside Moxton was green and hilly but somehow people never walked far. They were too tired. The men were old at forty and the women got old even quicker.

mine = place where miners dig for coal (which is black and was used for heating)

Leeds = city in the north of England greens = vegetables like cabbage rickets = disease caused by lack of vitamins, especially vitamin C

moors = beautiful green scenery but with few trees

First reading. Answer these questions with one word.

- 1 How many men from Moxton did not become miners? _____

Autobiography:
describing scenery

This is an extract from If I Can Make It Anybody Can by Victoria Rothesay.

After I left Debrecen I walked for days and put up my tent at night. An old couple driving a horse and cart stopped and spoke to me. I tried out my broken Hungarian and they laughed. But it was obvious they were offering me a lift, so I got up on the cart, with my backpack and tent. They offered me some fiery apricot liqueur, home-made by the look of it. We drank it from the bottle.

The land was flat. You could see forever. You could see as far as the future. At first we could still see the Hortobagy River, brown in the weak sunshine, and carpets of sunflowers. But then, as we jolted along a track in the cart, there was just the puszta – the dry Great Plain of Hungary. It's where the Hungarians grow their wheat and catch their wild horses.

A Hungarian poet once said that the earth and the sky are one in the puszta. I understand what he means. As far as you can see in every direction, the sky comes down and touches the land. This dry yellow land is not beautiful in the usual sense, but being in it, being part of it, I felt a great sense of peace. I have always hated mountains and skyscrapers because they are bigger than I am. But this ... When I lay down and watched the puszta from the back of the cart, it was like being in a great safe flat bed that had no sides but just went on forever. It was then, at that moment, that I felt I could do anything in the world that I wanted. I was eighteen years old.

Then, in the distance, we saw the horses. At first there was just a cloud of dust. Then, suddenly, about ten small, wiry, brown Hungarian wild horses charged across the Great Plain. They got near enough for me to see them tossing their heads. Two csikos, Hungarian cowboys, were chasing them. The cowboys saw the cart and shouted something. The old man shouted something back and he and the old woman laughed. They said something to me in Hungarian, probably trying to explain what the cowboys had said.

I fell asleep. When I woke up, the horses and the two csikos had gone but nothing about the scenery had changed. We were still moving forward but it was as if we had stopped.

I didn't want us ever to arrive anywhere. I wanted to stay on that cart in the Great Plain forever. But at the same time I knew that when the journey was over, everything was going to be just fine. And it was.

First reading. True or false?

- 1 Debrecen is a town in Hungary. _____
- 2 The writer speaks no Hungarian at all. _____
- 3 The writer saw the Hortobagy River. _____
- 4 The writer felt a sense of peace because nothing in the scenery was bigger than her. _____
- 5 The writer likes flat scenery better than mountains. _____
- 6 The Hungarian cowboys didn't see the cart. _____
- 7 The scenery on the Great Plain doesn't change very much. _____
- 8 The writer describes a moment when she knew that everything in her life would be fine. _____

Second reading. Match the describing words and phrases (1–6) with what they describe (a–f).

Informal letter 4: describing clothes

This is an extract from a letter from Laura to Becky. Laura and Becky, aged 16, were very good friends before Becky moved to Australia.

from me

Hiya!!

How ya doin' down there in Australia?

I have been SHOPPING!! (Yes!). I got this really nice black dress. It covers the shoulder but it's got bare arms and a satin bow type thing high up. I got it at S&R, you know, in the High Street?

And I got some pedal pushers at Hurricane. They come in a pack of two. I got black and stone. They come just below the knee and they've got this pocket thing, but you can't get anything in it. They are a bit tight round the bum, but they look good (I think, I hope, per - lease!!)

Then there were these vest-type tops for the summer. They come in a pack of two as well. They've got very thin straps. One of them's blue and one's lemon.

Lastly (well I got tired!) I got these sling-back sandals so I can paint my toenails and it, like, shows. (No point doing stuff that doesn't show, say I)

And so to boys. I

Informal writing, especially by teenagers, comes very close to speech.

per - lease = please

you know and like are both features of speech that you also find in informal writing. They are 'fillers' and don't actually mean anything.

43 Informal letter 5: letter of thanks

35 Arthur Way
Swansea

25 November 2001

Dear Grandma,

1 Thank you ever so much for the lovely rucksack you sent for my thirteenth birthday.

2 All my friends have got one but nobody's is as nice as mine! I really love the smiley face on the back. And also it's really roomy. It's now called 'Fred', by the way, after my geography teacher Freddy Frog (that's not his real name).

3 Mum says I can use the rucksack for school as well as when we go to the sea on holiday. I couldn't wait until the summer to use it.

4 I hope you are well and that your leg is better. Mum sends her love.

Lots of love
Kirsty

46 Comic

In this comic story, Lauren, Steve and Charlene are Australians in their teens, sharing a flat in Melbourne.

mate = friend. It is common in Australian English, when being friendly.

intense = too serious creep = a negative, informal word, often used to describe someone people don't like especially someone who is always following you or ringing you when you don't want them to.

First reading. Which summary of the story has no mistakes in it, a or b?

- a Lauren didn't want to see Paul when he came to the flat. She couldn't go out with him, because she was working at the pizza parlour. At the pizza parlour she didn't speak to Paul. After the pizza parlour closed Paul was angry because she hadn't spoken to him. Lauren was scared of him and she phoned Charlene and told her to come and get her in the car. Steve told everybody to get in the car. Back in the flat Lauren told Charlene that Paul was too intense and she didn't like him any more. In the other room, Paul was crying. Steve told him to go and say sorry to Lauren.
- b Paul asked Lauren out but she was working at the pizza parlour that evening. Although he had two tickets for the cinema, Paul didn't go but went to the pizza parlour. There he saw Lauren talking to somebody and he got jealous. After Lauren left the pizza parlour he stopped her and asked her out again. Lauren was afraid of him, so she phoned Charlene and told her to bring Steve. Back at the flat Lauren wasn't sure that she had done the right thing when she phoned for help. Meanwhile, Steve told Paul to write to Lauren and not to try and see her again.

Second reading. True or false?

- 1 Lauren knew Paul was coming when he came to the flat. _____
- 2 Lauren told Paul that she was working at the pizza parlour that night but that was not true. _____
- 3 Paul didn't like Lauren talking to someone else at the pizza parlour. _____
- 4 Paul waited for Lauren to talk to her after work. _____
- 5 Charlene was angrier with Paul than Steve was. _____
- 6 Lauren liked Paul but thought he was too intense. _____
- 7 Paul was crying because of what he had done. _____
- 8 Steve told Paul to write to Lauren and say he was sorry. _____

47 Jokes

Match the questions (1–6) with the answers (a–f) in these jokes.

- | | | | |
|---|--|---|--------------------------------------|
| 1 | What did one maths book say to the other maths book? | a | From the footprints in the butter. |
| 2 | What is white and climbs trees? | b | A coward. |
| 3 | How do you tell when an elephant has been in the fridge? | c | I have problems. |
| 4 | Why do birds fly south for the winter? | d | Because it's too far to walk. |
| 5 | What do you call a boomerang that doesn't come back? | e | A fridge. I lied about the climbing. |
| 6 | What do you call a scared cow? | f | A stick. |

Match the correct punch lines (a–f) with the jokes (1–6).

- | | | | |

| 5 | Have you read Shakespeare? | e | In Washington DC. |
| 6 | It's natural to make mistakes. | f | She pushed me over. |

Here's one to tell your friends – just for fun!

A dog walked into the Post Office and asked to send a telegram. The counter clerk gave him the form and the dog wrote 'Woof – woof – woof – woof – woof – woof.' The counter clerk looked at the form and said, 'For the same money you could have one more woof.'

'No,' said the dog. 'It wouldn't make sense.'

The punch line of a joke is the line that makes you laugh (hopefully!).

- Noah = In the Bible, he was a man who set out in the Ark (a kind of boat) with two of every kind of animal in the world. A flood covered the world with water and everyone died apart from the people and animals on the Ark.

boomerang = a piece of wood that comes back when you throw it. It is traditionally used by Australian aborigines when they are hunting.

SECTION 5

This is an extract from How the Boy and I took on the World by Clancy Gardell.

Jeb Smith was thirty when his wife died. The boy – Skip – was six and he took it bad. The day after the funeral Jeb Smith closed the mountain supplies store he ran in Alamosa. He turned his back on the Rio Grande and he and Skip headed for the San Juan Mountains. They kept to the valleys and gullies, Jeb pushing the boy real hard, lifting him over boulders and rocks when he got tired until they both burned out their pain in the heat.

The cougar saw them before they saw it. It was stretched out in the sun on a ledge of rock, about head high. Jeb saw it as it put its head down between its paws to spring. He put his pack down, quickly. He was wearing a jacket, the way men from the mountains often do, even in the heat, and he pulled the jacket open with both hands, making himself look big to the cougar. It worked. The cougar hesitated, ready to pounce on Jeb, but ready to forget the whole thing, too.

Jeb let go of his jacket, grabbed Skip and held him across his body, making a cross. Now the cougar's enemy looked even bigger and he raised up out of the crouch, ready to slink away, but unfortunately Skip got scared and struggled free of Jeb.

"Skip, no!" yelled his father.

But Skip broke and ran and that's the last thing you do with a cougar. The second Skip broke free, Jeb hurled himself at the cougar, just as it sprang from the rock. They hit each other in mid-air, spun and both fell. The cougar was on Jeb in a flash, forgetting about Skip, which was what Jeb wanted.

Cougars are not as big as most people think and a determined man stands a chance, even with just his fists. As the cougar's claws ripped into his left shoulder, Jeb swiped his fist at its eyes and hit true. The animal howled, hissed and put its head back. Jeb followed up with his other fist, but he only managed to cuff the cougar harmlessly behind the ear. Then out of the corner of his eye, Jeb saw Skip. The boy was running back to help his father.

A low sob broke from Jeb at this but he never stopped swinging his arms, elbows and fists into the cougar's face, so fast that the cougar never got a bite back. But its claws were still digging into Jeb's shoulder and Jeb knew that if he lost consciousness, the cougar would kill both him and Skip.

"Knife, Skip," shouted Jeb.

The boy ran to his father's pack that was lying on the ground and tore at the tent that was folded on top of it. He got the pack open and threw stuff out until he came to the knife. Jeb started yelling as well as hitting, to keep the cougar's attention away from Skip.

Skip got the knife and ran over to Jeb. The cougar was moving its head in and out, trying to find a way through the wall Jeb was making out of his arms. Skip swung with the knife, into the cougar's back. It howled horribly, turned and snarled, and ran off into the mountains.

The whole fight had taken maybe thirty seconds.

First reading. Write Yes if you should do these things when you see a cougar and No if you should not do them.

- 1 make yourself look bigger _____
- 2 make yourself look a funny shape to the mountain lion _____
- 3 run away _____
- 4 fight back if it attacks you _____
- 5 hit the cougar's eyes _____
- 6 hit the cougar behind the ears _____

Second reading. Match the words with the definitions.

- | | |
|--------------|---|
| 1 gullies | a large rocks |
| 2 boulders | b jumped |
| 3 ledge | c hit gently, on or near the head |
| 4 sprang | d very quickly |
| 5 in a flash | e like toes on a mountain lion but very sharp |
| 6 claws | f when you cry loudly |
| 7 cuff | g narrow bed of rock |
| 8 a sob | h small, narrow valleys |

49 Love story

This is an extract from Tales of Early Life by Patricia Field.

LORRAINE LIKED ART BEST because he sat next to her in art. She liked the sound of his name. She could say it perfectly in her head, Thomas Baldwin. But she couldn't say it out loud at all. The two words of his name got all tangled as they came out, the way so many words do when you are only nine years old.

At least, she was nine years old. He was ten. His birthday was in June. She could not have said what he looked like because she never looked at him. But he was yellow and blue somehow and most boys were red and black. He was also smooth and most boys were rough. Somehow, Lorraine felt all right with him in the same way she felt all right with her dad.

Art was nice anyway. You splashed about with water and you made pretty patterns. Miss Crosby, her teacher, often got cross in the Friday art lessons but Lorraine understood that. It was because Miss Crosby was young and new and there were thirty of them in the class and there was only one of her and the boys sometimes behaved badly. Lorraine liked Miss Crosby. But not as much as she liked Thomas Baldwin.

Today's Friday art lesson is more than usually lovely. Today they are making patterns in twos. Some of the boys were silly about that, as usual. But not Thomas Baldwin.

'What colours do you want to do?' he asks her, in that serious way he has.

'Yellow and blue,' she says. And she wants to say 'like you'. But she doesn't. Though she keeps saying 'Yellow and blue like you,' over and over again in her head because the rhyme makes her happy. She and Thomas Baldwin work steadily and quietly together while most of the others throw paint and water at each other or talk and scream. 'Yellow and blue like you.' Paint, paint. Happy.

When Miss gets to them she has that high voice she sometimes has at the end of the week. 'Finished, Miss,' says Lorraine and waits anxiously for the expected praise, which, when withheld, leads to tears.

'That's very good, Lorraine Pitcher and Thomas Baldwin,' says Miss Crosby. 'Now empty your water and start another one.'

Miss Crosby moves distractedly across the classroom to break up a water fight.

'Come on,' Lorraine says to Thomas. She gets up and crosses the classroom, carrying the dirty water in a jam jar. When she reaches the sink she knows, she just knows, that he has followed her. She looks round breathlessly. And he has. He has.

Lorraine throws the dirty water into the sink, sighing the way her mother does when she does the housework. She fills the jam jar with clean water. 'Come on,' she says again to Thomas Baldwin and again Thomas Baldwin follows her.

In later life Lorraine sometimes wondered if she would have been Mrs Baldwin if she had got back to her seat without incident. But life had another path for her. She tripped over Peter Robinson, who for some reason was lying on the floor, went down with a bang and spilled the water all down the front of her dress. She burst into tears in an untidy wet heap on the floor.

'Silly girl,' said Thomas Baldwin, as he stepped carefully over her. As the bell went, he walked into the playground and out of her life.

Choose the correct answers. There is sometimes more than one correct answer.

- 1 Who did Lorraine like?
 - a) Her dad.
 - b) Thomas Baldwin.
 - c) Miss Crosby.
 - d) Peter Robinson.

- 2 Who and/or what was yellow and blue?
 - a) Thomas Baldwin – he had blonde hair and blue eyes.
 - b) Miss Crosby.
 - c) The jam jar.
 - d) The pattern.

- 3 Why did Lorraine like art?
 - a) Because she liked Miss Crosby.
 - b) Because she sat next to Thomas Baldwin.
 - c) Because she splashed about with water and made pretty patterns.
 - d) Because there were water fights.

- 4 What did Lorraine like about Thomas Baldwin?
 - a) He made her feel all right.
 - b) He was serious.
 - c) She would have been his wife.
 - d) He stepped over her carefully.

- 5 What went wrong in the story?
 - a) Lorraine tripped and fell over.
 - b) Lorraine spilled water down the front of her dress.
 - c) The bell went and Thomas Baldwin went into the playground.
 - d) Thomas Baldwin called her a silly girl.

52 Diary

This is an extract from the diary of Stephen Montague, aged 22.

Monday September 1

First day in a new job! I mean, it's supposed to be such an important day in your life. And I've looked forward to it ... How long? Well, right through the accountancy course at college if not before. So Day 1 the boss says he's got some bad news. The Gloucester branch is relocating up north. Some existing staff are going, some aren't. Most aren't. Well, cheers Mr Bradley. Then he tells me he tried to stop Head Office in London appointing me, but it just went through before the decision was taken.

Tuesday September 2

The atmosphere is really terrible. Nobody's doing any work. There are union meetings. Everybody's talking about who it will be – who gets the chop and who stays. People are nice to me, but I think that's because they think I've had it. Last in first out and all that. The afternoon with Josie was nice though. She's supposed to be showing me the ropes but we were nattering the whole time about our past lives.

Wednesday September 3

There have been some acts of vandalism. Somebody's blocked the toilets and the heating was jammed on for a couple of hours. Bradley called Security and we've got these private security guards in the toilets now. Great! The first people got redundancy notices today. Nobody I know, but then I hardly know anybody. I'm fed up. I'm going to ask Josie out for a drink. She can only say no.

Thursday September 4

Things are looking up. Josie asked me for a drink! Then she cancelled with loads of apologies but we're going tomorrow. I don't know if anybody else is going or not. She's a bit older than me. I think she's twenty-eight. I've always liked older women! I actually did some work today. Did a few spreadsheets on possible new business in accident insurance. Josie checked it, which she didn't have to. I mean I really really like ... No, pack it in. See how it goes tomorrow.

Friday September 5

Friday – relocating, so's Josie. Am in love. No time for diary.

First reading. Choose the best answer, a or b.

- 1 Does Stephen work at Head Office?
a) Yes b) No
- 2 How many acts of vandalism does Stephen mention?
a) Two b) Three
- 3 Did Stephen get a redundancy notice?
a) Yes b) No
- 4 Did Stephen ask Josie out for a drink?

How to survive an earthquake1. If you are indoors, stay there!

Get under a desk or a table and hold onto it, or move into a doorway. The next best place is in a hallway or against an inside wall. Stay away from windows and heavy furniture or appliances. Get out of the kitchen, which is a dangerous place. Do not run downstairs or rush outside while the building is shaking or while there is danger of falling and hurting yourself or being hit by falling glass or debris.

2. If you are outside, get into the open.

Get away from buildings, power lines, chimneys and anything else that might fall on you.

3. If you are driving, stop carefully.

Move your car as far out of traffic as possible. Do not stop on or under a bridge or under trees, streetlights, power lines or signs. Stay inside your car until the shaking stops.

4. After the quake stops, check for injuries and apply the necessary first aid or seek help.

Do not attempt to move seriously injured people. Cover them with blankets and get medical help for serious injuries.

5. Check for hazards.

- If you can, put on a pair of sturdy thick-soled shoes (in case you step on broken glass, debris, etc.).

- Put out fires in your home or neighborhood immediately.
- Shut off the gas if broken pipes or odor cause you to suspect a gas leak.
- Do not use matches, lighters, camp stoves, barbecues, electrical equipment or appliances until you are sure there are no gas leaks.
- Shut off electrical power if there is any damage to house wiring.

6. Check food and water supplies.

Do not eat or drink anything from open containers near broken glass. If the power is off, plan meals to use up frozen foods or foods that will spoil quickly. Food in the freezer should be good for at least twenty-four to forty-eight hours. If the water is off, you can drink from water heaters, melted ice cubes or canned vegetables. Avoid drinking from swimming pools.

7. Be prepared for aftershocks.

Another quake, larger or smaller, may follow. Use your telephone only for a medical or fire emergency – you could tie up lines needed for emergency response.

55 Formal letter 3: from the police

Camera Enforcement Office
 Bragton Police Station
 High Street
 Bragton
 Wessex
 WE12 9AB

RICHARD ARTHUR PITT
 10 RAGLAN ROAD
 SOUTHWICH
 WESSEX, WE5 7RJ

An enforcement camera at B1013 Heston Road near the Slipton Roundabout, SOUTHWICH, recorded that on 21/06/2001 at 09:31 a vehicle, registration number R231 DRT, committed the offence of excess speed.

The law allows you to pay a fine of £40 and have your driving licence endorsed with 3 penalty points if you pay the fine within 28 days. (The fine must be paid in full and cannot be paid in instalments.)

But if your driving licence has been endorsed with 9 or more penalty points in the last 3 years, you could be disqualified from driving and you cannot pay a fine and have more points added to your licence.

YOU MUST COMPLY FULLY WITH THIS OFFER
 OTHERWISE COURT PROCEEDINGS WILL BE COMMENCED AGAINST YOU.

EXTENSIONS TO THE 28 DAYS WILL NOT BE GRANTED.

If you get twelve penalty points on your driving licence in three years in Britain, you lose the licence for a period of time and you cannot drive. You get penalty points for things like speeding and driving through a red light. When you get penalty points, these are written on your driving licence. In other words your licence is endorsed.

First reading. Which summary has no mistakes, a or b?

- a This is a formal printed notice from the police which is sent to anyone whose car has been photographed by speed cameras (enforcement cameras). It says that the person driving the car must pay £40 and have three to six points put on their driving licence. The driver must pay within 28 days.
- b This is a formal printed notice from the police which is sent to anyone whose car has been photographed by speed cameras (enforcement cameras.) It says that the person driving the car will be taken to court (prosecuted) unless they accept a Fixed Penalty of a £40 fine and three penalty points put on their driving licence. But if the driver already has nine points or more on the licence, the offer of a Fixed Penalty can't be taken and the driver will probably lose his driving licence for a time.

Second reading. Choose the best answer, a or b.

- 1 Who is this letter from?
 - a) The police
 - b) Richard Arthur Pitt
- 2 Can the driver pay a fine and not go to court?
 - a) Yes
 - b) Yes, unless he has nine or more points on his licence
- 3 Can the fine be paid at £10 a week for four weeks.
 - a) Yes
 - b) No
- 4 What has to be done within twenty-eight days?
 - a) The licence must be sent and the fine paid.
 - b) The driver has to enter the points on his licence and go to court.
- 5 What would happen if the driver put the letter away and did nothing?
 - a) He would just get three to six points on his licence.
 - b) There would be court proceedings against him.

Newspaper story 1: events

EMPTY! – No oil as the first hospitals and schools are hit

BRTAIN HAS NEARLY STOPPED TODAY, only the second day of the oil crisis. Despite the warning given by Prime Minister Tony Blair, many of Britain's oil refineries are still blocked by lorries, tractors and taxis.

Lorry drivers angry at the price of petrol have again stopped petrol tankers from leaving oil refineries in Wales, the north-west and Essex. The drivers are angry at petrol prices. At 80p per litre Britain has the highest prices in Europe and 60.82p of the price goes to the government in tax.

'I employ twenty people and I'm going out of business,' says haulage contractor Jim Sowerbutts of Lincoln, one of the people blocking the Immingham refinery on the east coast. 'We cannot make a living with petrol at these prices. It's impossible. It makes goods dearer for the consumer. And Britain is an oil producer. It's mad.'

Britain has run out of petrol very quickly. Today well over 1,000 of Britain's 8,000 filling stations ran dry and even more are out of unleaded petrol – the most popular choice. Among those affected today:

- Hospitals are running out of beds because patients cannot get home either by ambulance or by taxi.

- Operations are being postponed because only nurses who live within walking distance of hospital or who use public transport can get in.
- There are fears that hospitals will run out of blood.

- Some areas of the country, such as Cumbria in the north-west, have almost no public transport services. They are now virtually cut off from the rest of the country and there are fears for food supplies in this and similar areas.

In a statement yesterday Tony Blair said that however strongly people felt about petrol prices this was not the way to get them down. He said that no government could give in to pressure like this. He explained that recent rises in petrol prices were due to an increase in crude oil prices (to 15.46p per litre), not an increase in government tax.

He then said that Britain would be 'on the way back to normal' within twenty-four hours.

We shall see!

hit = affected (newspaper language)

Newspaper story 1

Businessman gave waitress $10,000 tip – it's like a fairy story.

British businessman Gordon Williams had a big surprise for a waitress at a bar in New York City. At the end of the evening he left her a tip of $10,000.

The waitress, Gloria Latrobe, was working at Top Club near Times Square in the centre of New York for a few weeks only. She is studying psychology at New York University.

Miss Latrobe said, 'Gordon spent the evening at the club with some friends. It was his last night in New York. We talked a lot. He's interested in psychology, too. He gave me the money to pay for my last year of college.'

And what did she do when she got the tip? Miss Latrobe laughed. 'I called the manager.' The manager of Top Club, Peter Hay, said 'Of course, we thought it was a mistake and the guy wanted to give a $10 tip. We asked him to sign a paper, promising to pay $10,000. He did that.'

'I'm really happy,' said Miss Latrobe. 'It's like a fairy tale, when a prince walks into your life.'

Newspaper story 2

I gave waitress that $10,000 tip – and now my wife wants to know why.

Businessman Gordon Williams, who gave a waitress in New York a $10,000 tip, does not have $10,000 in his account. His bank will not pay the cheque.

'I just want this to go away,' says unhappy Gordon Williams. 'My wife wants to know why I did it. Well, I don't remember doing it at all. The bar has a paper that I signed, so it must be true, but I don't remember doing it.'

Unfortunately for Mr Williams, who has two children, the story will not go away yet.

Gloria Latrobe has been on coast-to-coast television in the US, telling the story again and again. The day after she got the tip, Miss Latrobe described Mr Williams as 'a very nice English gentleman.' Even now she says, 'I hope his family isn't angry with him.'

But there is a happy ending to the story after all. Top Club in New York were so pleased that the club's name was in every newspaper in Britain and the United States that they have given Gloria Latrobe the $10,000 to pay for her last year at NYU.

Franz Marc

Biography

Franz Moritz Wilhelm Marc was born on 8 February 1880 in Munich, Germany. He was the second son of the Munich landscape painter Wilhelm Marc and his wife Sophie. After deciding not to become a priest he studied art in Munich but broke off his studies after a visit to Paris in 1903 where he was fascinated by French Impressionism, though he disagreed with it. In 1907 he married Marie Schnur, also a Munich painter, who had an illegitimate child with an earlier partner. She and Marc divorced in 1908. An early painting Schlick, the dog, jumping was a Christmas present to his mother in that year. In 1910 Marc joined a group of painters based in Munich called The Blue Rider, whose best known member was the Russian-born Wassily Kandinsky. In 1911 he married another Munich painter called Maria Franck in London. On 4 March 1916 Marc was killed at the battle of Verdun.

Marc's early painting and drawing were realistic studies of horses, in the style he had learned at the Academy in Munich. He was particularly interested in animals moving, at this time. The early oil painting, Schlick, the dog, jumping, belongs to this period. He was also interested in landscape from an early age. But when he joined The Blue Rider group he became fascinated by colour. From then on he painted animals, especially horses, as part of the landscape. In the beautiful Horse in the Landscape (1910) the horse is not moving. It is part of a beautiful, mainly yellow and green, landscape. The lines of the horse and the lines of the landscape are one.

In Horse in the Landscape the horse was still its 'natural' colour – brown. But in 1911 Marc painted the first of a series of paintings called Blue Horse. The daring idea was that this particular horse's true colour was blue because blue was the colour of strength, dignity and courage. Blue, for Marc, was the masculine colour. The feminine colour was yellow and in 1912 Marc painted The Little Yellow Horses. Three beautiful, graceful yellow horses are again part of the landscape, totally at one with it.

First reading. Match 1–11 with a–k.

- | | | | |
|----|---------------------------------|---|--|
| 1 | Wilhelm Marc | a | a painting painted in 1911 |
| 2 | Sophie Marc | b | a painter and Marc's second wife |
| 3 | Marie Schnur | c | a painter and Marc's first wife |
| 4 | Schlick | d | Franz Marc's mother |
| 5 | Wassily Kandinsky | e | a painting of a brown horse |
| 6 | Maria Franck | f | a painting in the colour Marc thought was feminine |
| 7 | Verdun | g | a group of painters in Munich |
| 8 | The Blue Rider | h | the place where Marc was killed |
| 9 | Horse in the Landscape | i | a painter in the same group as Marc |
| 10 | Blue Horse | j | a dog |
| 11 | The Little Yellow Horses | k | Franz Marc's father |

Second reading. Put these events in the order that they happened.

- a He was no longer interested in movement, more in the colour of the landscape and animals as part of the landscape. _____
- b He thought of a system of colour for animals. _____
- c He painted realistic studies of horses as they really were. _____
- d He disagreed with French Impressionism. _____
- e He became interested in animals moving. _____

landscape = a painting of scenery or buildings an illegitimate child = the parents were not married.

French Impressionism = a very influential style of painting that started in France. The best known French impressionist was probably Claude Monet (1840–1926). Others were Paul Cézanne (1839–1906), Camille Pissarro (1831–1903) and Georges Seurat (1859–1891).

Charles Darwin (1809–1882)

Before Darwin's book On the Origin of Species (1859) people believed that everything in the world was created at the same time. They believed that every animal and plant had always been the same and had not changed in any way.

Fossils in a rock

Then Darwin looked at rocks. In the rocks were fossils – life 'frozen' in the rock. The newest fossils were at the top of the rock. But as Darwin looked under them he found older and older life forms, until at the bottom of the rock he found animals that no longer lived in the world at all.

The old fossils, deep in the rock, had changed into the newer fossils at the top. This slow change was known as evolution. All species, that is all plants and animals, evolved – changed. Most famously, he said that our species, homo sapiens, man, had evolved from monkeys.

Darwin thought that man evolved from monkeys.

Darwin also asked himself why evolution happened in one direction and not another. His answer was an idea called 'the survival of the fittest'. For example, the giraffe with the longest neck would survive because it can reach the tops of trees and so it can find food. Because it can find food, that giraffe would live long enough to have young giraffes, which would be born with long necks.

A giraffe reaches the top branches of the tree with its long neck.

The young giraffe has a long neck, too.

First reading. Match the beginning of these sentences (1–6) with the ends (a–f).

- | | | | |
|---|--|---|--|
| 1 | Before Darwin's book people believed | a | were at the bottom. |
| 2 | The newer fossils | b | man evolving from monkeys. |
| 3 | Older fossils | c | into the newer fossils. |
| 4 | The older fossils had changed | d | were at the top of the rock. |
| 5 | An example of evolution is | e | every animal came into being at the same time. |
| 6 | An example of 'survival of the fittest' is | f | the long necks of giraffes. |

Second reading. Answer these questions with one word.

- 1 Who wrote On the Origin of Species? _____
- 2 Where were the newer fossils, at the top or the bottom of the rock? _____
- 3 What is slow change called? _____
- 4 Darwin believed that our species had evolved from what? _____
- 5 Which animal did Darwin use as an example of 'survival of the fittest'? _____
- 6 Which part of this animal is important for the idea of 'survival of the fittest'? _____
